School Climate and Culture

“School climate is the way school culture affects an individual’s sense of safety, acceptance, and wellness and consequently is a critical determinant of their ability to achieve success in school and in life. A positive school climate helps students to feel safe and connected to teachers, peers, families, support staff, and administrators.”

School Climate and Culture

Research has shown that the quality of the school climate may be the single most predictive factor in any school's capacity to promote student achievement. Everyone within the school environment succeeds when everyone feels accepted, valued, and respected.

Shindler, J., Jones, A., Williams, A.D., Taylor, C., Cardenia, H. (2016). The school climate-student achievement connection: If we want achievement gains, we need to begin by improving the climate. Journal of School Administration Research and Development 1(1), 9-16.

Creating a Shared Vision and Purpose School Climate and Culture

Create an environment where the mental well-being of all is valued and fostered, free from stigma.

Such an environment is both the result of, and reflective of, a multi-faceted support structure that is proactive and responsive.

Creating a Shared Vision and Purpose School Climate and Culture

According to the World Health Organization (WHO), mental health is defined as a state of well-being in which every individual realizes their own potential, can cope with the normal stresses of life, can work productively and fruitfully, and is able to make a contribution to their community. Fully embracing this definition requires a cultural shift that views mental health as an integral part of overall health. As part of overall health and wellness, mental health includes:

Creating a Shared Vision and Purpose School Climate and Culture

School climate is the feel of the school (the schools' attitude), the behaviors and points of view exhibited and experienced by students, teachers and other stakeholders.

School climate is described as “the heart and soul of the school,” the feeling that either encourages teachers and students to engage, love the school, and to want to be a part of it, or to reject the school and disengage from it.

Creating a Shared Vision and Purpose School Climate and Culture

School culture is the way things are done in the school (the personality of a school), the underlying norms and values that shape patterns of behavior, attitudes and expectations between stakeholders in the school. Norms, values, beliefs, traditions, and rituals built up over time.”

A school's culture is always at work, either helping or hindering learning. It influences every decision and action in a school, from the leadership style of the principal to the way teachers choose curriculum materials and interact with students.
